

San Diego Guide

This is a quick look into my insights of San Diego's long list of activities and adventure.

Outdoor Activities

- Check out Mission Trails for lots of outdoor fun (2 miles away). 6800 acres of trails for hiking and mountain bikes for all skill levels. Wish to scale a 100 ft rock face, hike up the tallest peak in San Diego County, fish for bass or trout in a lake, or road bike around a wildlife preserve, then visit the Visitor Center for better details for fishing licenses and trail maps. www.mtrp.org
- Try to hike up to Potato Chip on the Mount Woodson Trail - 3hr hike one way.

- Golfing courses abound with affordable rounds just down the street with a driving range @ Mission Trails Course
- Beaches are 7 miles away with many aquatic activities including whale watching and deep sea fishing
- Shopping is a chance to get some sun at the Fashion Valley Mall, just don't let a hole burn through your wallet at some the most exclusive high end brands stores.
- Mexico is only 30 mins away, don't forget your passport. . .
- San Diego has more farms than any other city in the country with over 700 farms.
To try a taste of this goodness try our vast selection of Farmer's Markets
My favorites are in Little Italy, Hillcrest, and Ocean Beach
Here's the schedule since each market is open for a just few hours each week

Main Attractions

- Sea World
- San Diego Zoo
- Old Town Historical Center
- Birch Aquarium
- Balboa Park
- Cabrillo Monument
- Beach towns - Ocean Beach, Pacific Beach, La Jolla Shores, Coronado
- 15 golf courses
- Gaslamp Quarter for bars and restaurants
- North park, Hillcrest, Missions hills for local hotspots

Public Transport

- Use the 115 bus line to get to the SDSU transit station(5 min)
This trolley green line to take you to Fashion Valley or the Old Town exit that links to all Amtrak or the metro bound buses to beaches or Balboa Park, or continue on the trolley for the Convention Center, Gaslamp Quarter, or even Mexico.
- Also check out Lyft and Uber for a faster commute that's for affordable than a taxi
